Student Life

The School Year Begins with Festival Queens and Unusual Classrooms

A geology lecture in a church basement? Students found that waiting for college buildings to be remodeled meant a variety of temporary classrooms.

Even through all the confusion of registration, CCC males always seem to remember to check in with Uncle Sam.

"S-110 means the first room to the right in the Elks--or is it the left?" Getting to the right class in the right building was something of a miracle during the beginning weeks of school.

Francie Nolan was the queen candidate from the Graham Hospital School of Nursing.

Canton Community College sponsored sophomore Shirley Wicevich for queen of the Canton Friendship Festival.

A pretty girl's best friends--her dog and her record collection.

Trips back and forth to the car, unpacking and pressing out the wrinkles are all part of moving in.

Many leisure hours are spent relaxing in front of the "tube".

Student Housing Means Moving, Cooking, and Gaining Friends

This college life takes a lot of vitamins and minerals.

Tonight it's hamburgers--tomorrow, who knows?

The journalistic talents of many Canton College students earn them jobs with the local newspaper.

Area grocery stores provide a large variety of jobs for college students.

Student Jobs . . .

A friendly manner and an alert mind--full time requirements for a part-time job.

The "sweetest" job of all--weighing out 69 cents worth of calories.

From Groceries to Guitars

Expressing themselves through today's musical moods is a meaningful job for many CCC males.

Taking care of the "younger generation" is a popular and enjoyable way to earn some extra spending money.

"Sitting this one out" means taking a break from the music and chatting with other couples.

Santa greets the Yuletide couples as they "sign in."

Wild and Wonderful Winter Formal

The Midnight Hour came through loud and clear as they set the musical mood for the Sigma Alpha Theta-Zeta Chi formal.

Even long flowing gowns and tight ties can't stop the beat from reaching the feet.

Posing for the "Picture-taker," is also a part of the evening's events.

"Not even the High Lama can live forever."

“Prelude to Summer”

Faculty, as well as students, felt the enchantment of the evening.

The music of Wayne King's orchestra created a romantic atmosphere.

"Sitting this one out" meant chatting with old friends.

"I could have danced all night."

Prelude to a summer of our own--
 Rapt dancers, bearing Spring upon a throne
 Elude the night to dress the starlit hall.
 Lush laughter and the splendor of the ball
 Usher out farewells and in hellos.
 Dying friendships bloom, and class-made foes
 Eradicate the fire's hot ember glows.

Tomorrow of today the prelude's done
 On freedom's path to stalk a summer sun.

Spring's still soft starlight shifts to dawning June.
 Under a simpering fountain or mild moon
 Memories mix bitter-sweet our tears,
 Milk these youthful souls of wanton fears;
 Each dancer's step peals thoughts in resonant chimes;
 Remember me thus, in prelude to greater times.

First Wrestling Squad Takes National Honors

A valuable wrestler on the Crusader squad, Homer Adams, represented Canton College at the national tourney.

Canton Community College's first wrestling squad coached by Tom Zimanzl, earned representation at the National Wrestling Tourney at Worthington, Minnesota.

Homer Adams, freshman from Limestone earned his way to the national tourney by winning the sectional crown in the 115-pound class. Adams went the season without being pinned by an opponent.

Two other Crusaders won trophies in the four-state sectional tournament here and represented CCC at the nationals. They were Rod Heinze, who competed in the 130-pound weight class, and Jan Supernowski, who wrestles at 150.

The squad voted Chuck Petty as the "most improved wrestler" at the end of the regular season.

First Track Team Has Great Season

The Crusaders of the Middle Ages went forth seeking the Holy Grail. The Crusaders of Canton Community College track and field team this year initiated their quest for their own personal grail.

The team possessed two obvious assets, balance and team spirit. Coach Georgieff spoke for the evidence of team spirit by saying, "The attitude of the team has been excellent."

In their first meet against Bradley the Crusaders upset the mighty papooses 79-54. They next absorbed their only loss of the season against the WIU freshman. The Crusaders also participated in the Muscatine Invitational and Blackhawk Relays.

The Crusaders highlighted the season with a second place finish in the Region IV meet.

Runners for CCC prove that a "long distance" isn't reserved for phone calls.

Up and over--the hard way.

Students Endure

Some experience pain.

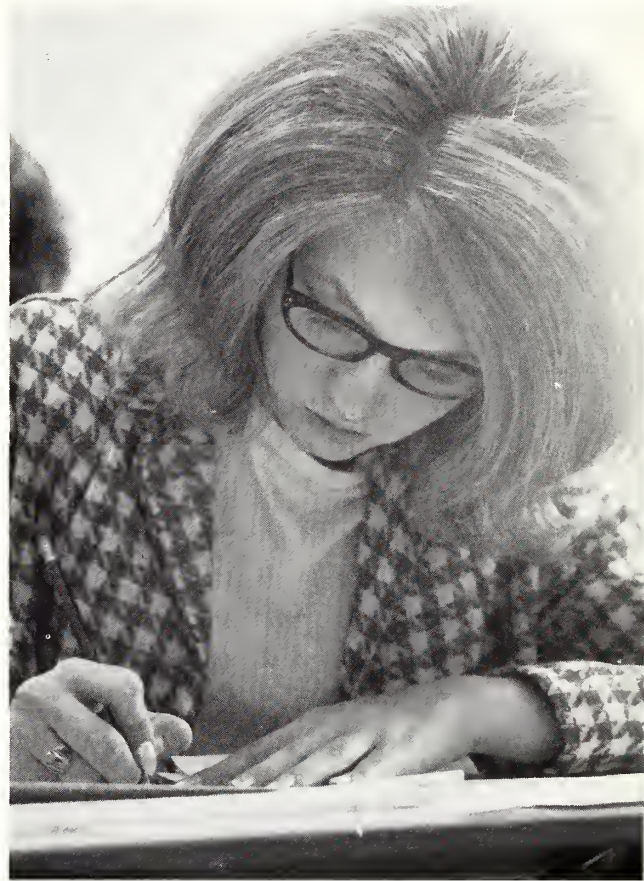

Others meet stage fright.

Many Anxieties

A large percentage of the rhetoric classes chose extrasensory perception for their term report topic. Inspired by their research into this subject, CCC rhetoric students experimented with their own psychic powers. After much time, work, and often "short nights," the term papers were completed. With fingers crossed, the students awaited their final grades in hope that teachers would amply reward their efforts.

Do we have to have footnotes?

What card am I holding?

The life of a college student often involves taking on important responsibilities.

The tools of learning, from slide rule to fountain pen, are quite at home in the laboratories of our junior college.

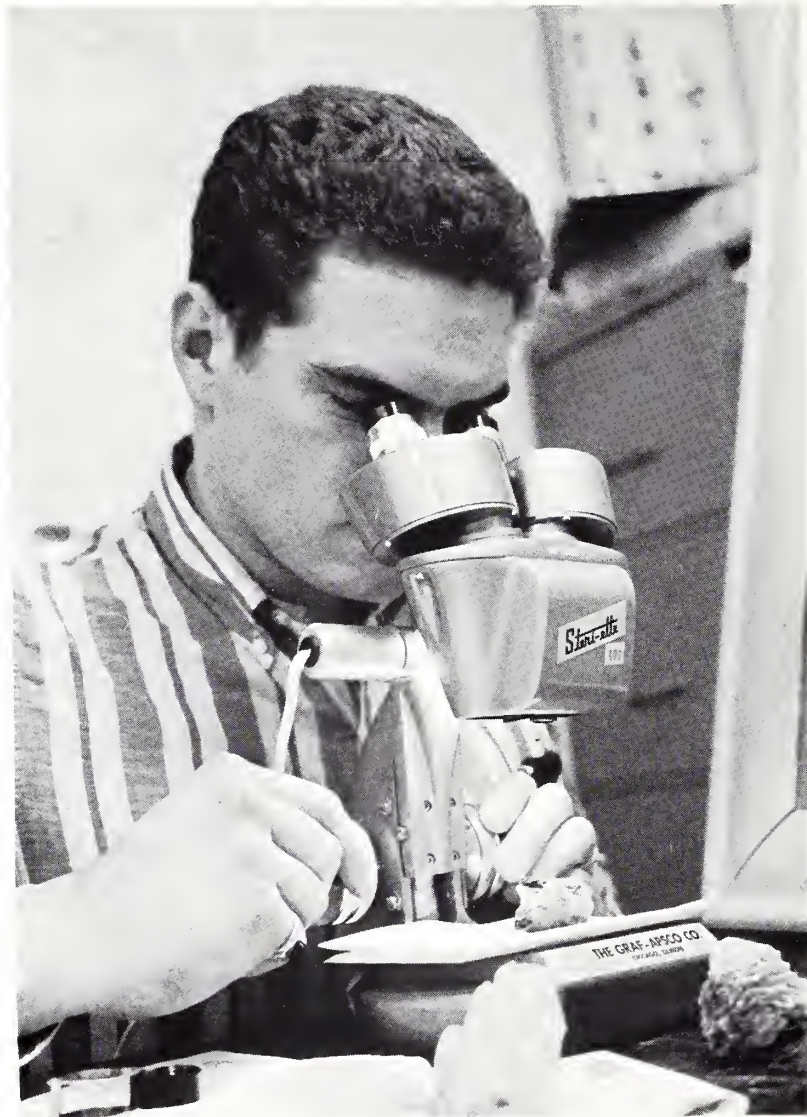

In the library all the phases of CCC life intertwine; nurses, farm tech men, the scientists, artists, teachers, and businessmen of tomorrow.

The imaginative minds of Canton College art students produce unusual pieces of sculpture like this one.

Concentration— the Key to Education

An ambitious student is getting a closer look at one type of rock during geology class.

Relaxed students listen to Mr. Eller as he explains the importance of economics in our modern world.

"Experts we aren't," says Ralph Endres to Don Doubet as they use a manual to help identify rock specimens.

Classes Involve Initiative and Patience

One happy student carrying his box of equipment, flashes a smile upon leaving class.

Adults Contribute Both Day

CCC's night classes include mothers, veterans, and day workers, as well as full-time students. The lights of Dahm Hall burn Monday through Thursday evening, enabling those who have a full day's schedule to profit from our junior college at night. Other adults find time to participate in the extra-curricular activities offered during daytime college hours. Whether they attend classes in the evening or during the day, Canton College's "older students" contribute much to our institution.

Dean Cites Many CCC 'Opportunities'

Like most institutions of higher learning, Canton Community College means many things to many people. For some, it may mean the only hope for educational experience beyond the secondary level; for others, it may represent the best means to a baccalaureate degree and perhaps eventually to graduate study in a professional field. And for still others, the college may mean the chance for experience and training that will lead to satisfying and meaningful positions in technical and vocational fields. In short, then, no matter what the students' goals are or where the institutions are located, Canton Community College shares one characteristic with other two year institutions: the "opportunity" for the many as well as the few.

As Dean of this school, I enlist your active participation in the improvement of our institution. And, as students, your greatest contribution can be in developing your maximum potential--from striving for academic success to establishing a set of personal values and to dedicating education and training to the good of humanity. Will you join with me in these efforts?

May I express my sincere thanks and appreciation for your excellent support throughout my first year at Canton Community College.

Sincerely yours,

Heard A. Bishop

People are the most important part of life. In order for any organization or institution to exist there must be people who are willing to offer initiative and support. This yearbook is dedicated to you, the people who give life to Canton Community College.

My sincere appreciation to those who made this book possible: Mrs. Kathryn Doubet, Advisor; Mr. Roger Foote, professional photographer; Mr. Joe Gardner, representative of the American Yearbook Company; Lynda Stone, Organizations Editor; Joe Halford, Sports Editor; Sharyn Pinnegar, Academics Editor; Sherry Harwick, Administration Editor; Marcia Becker, Class Editor; Willa Stroman, Copy Editor; Jim Wilson, Layout Editor; Nila Copeland, Barb Ennis, Sharon Shaw, and Sherry Hertlein, typists; and the numerous others who when called upon, gave graciously of their time and effort to aid in the production of the 1967 SHIELD.

Cindy Hatch
